Cleveland Judge Decides Members of Both Sexes Are Eligible to Court Service.

DEFENCE PLEA REFUSED

Counsel for Accused, However, Is Expected to Challenge All Except Men.

CLEVELAND June 28.—Women may elp decide the fate of Mrs. Eva Catherine Kaber, charged with plotting the sassination of her husband, Daniel F. Kaber, in their Lakewood home two cars ago. In her trial for first degree urder, which opened here this morning, her attorneys lost in their effort to bar

A motion by her attorneys to have a pecial venire of forty-two prospective jurors annulled because five women were ong them, on the ground that the institutional right to sit on a jury has not been extended to women, was overruled by Judge Maurice Bernon without argument by the State.

woman, Mrs. Cora K. Burg, now sits in the jury box tentatively. With her when court adjourned for the day were two men, Edwin L. Forr, a clerk, and Frank W. Evans, a railroad electrician. Thirteen talesmen had been examined, ten being challenged for cause. Mrs. Burg is the only woman examined so far.

The fact that one woman now sits tentutively in the jury box and that the court has ruled that women are eligible to jury service does not, however, mean that one or more of her own sex will actually participate in the deliberation of Mrs. Kaber's case. Her chief counsel, Francis W. Poulson, declared that if necessary he will use every one of his sixteen peremptory challenges to remove women from the jury.

Mrs. Kaber was brought into court unaccompanied except for her counsel and a jail deputy. She wore a black tailored suit, blue hat with black plumes and blue silk gloves. She never conferred with her counsel except to answer one or two questions.

Indicating that temporary insanity may be the principal defence of Mrs. Kaber, her counsel questioned prospective jurors closely as to their attitude on such a plea and whether they were prejudent of the principal party and the princi such a plea and whether they were preju-diced against such a plea being made. Defense counsel also asked talesmen whether they would consider a recom-mendation for mercy in connection with a verdict of first degree murder. Re-ommendation for mercy by a jury makes it possible for the court to sentence to life imprisonment. A verdict of guilty of first degree murder without a clem-ency recommendation imposes the death sentence.

Indicating the defence's objection to women jurors was the close questioning of Mrs. Burg by Attorney William J. Corrigan. For half an hour he fired question after question at the prespective juror demanding clear cut answers to all, Mrs. Burg answered all unhesitatingly sand in a manner that would not disand in a manner that would not dis-qualify her. She declared she was not opposed to capital punishment for women and that she would give testimony to substantiate a defence of insanity the same weight as other testimony.

Vice-Chancellor Stevenson shunted the reform element to his colleague, Vice-Chancellor Foster, quickly. Mr. Glison declared that the injunction he sought should be made to affect the New Jersey Boxing Commission, too. Before he had made great progress Vice-Chancellor Foster asked him why he did not seek to have Rickard and his associates indicted for conspiracy instead of coming into civil court charging possible breach of the criminal law.

"We've tried that," replied Mr. Glison, "but no action has been taken. They are going to violate the law—the moral law, the righteous law—and the court may well intervene."

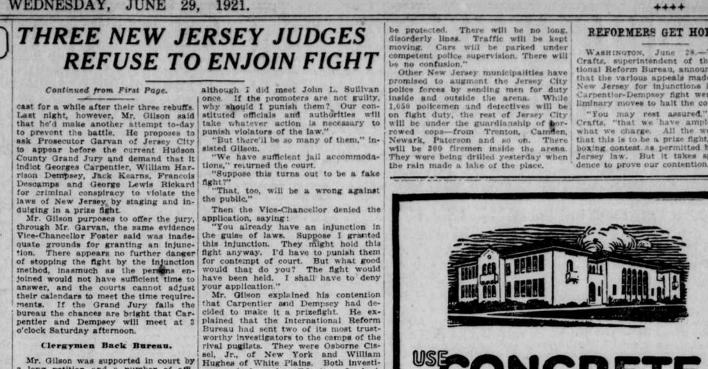

"Do you expect the court to intervene when the crime is merely expected?" inquired the Vice Chancellor.

"You may rest assured," said Mr. Crafts, "that we have ample proof of what we charge. All the world knows that this is to be a prize fight, and not a boxing contest as permitted by the New Jersey law. But it takes specific evidence to prove our contention."
